On the 10th anniversary of Stuart Lubbock's death at the home of TV entertainer Michael Barrymore, his father Terry tells the Star why he will never give up his fight for the truth

I WANT PEACE OF MIND

THE father of the man found dead at the home of TV star Michael Barrymore says he will never give up hope that those responsible for his son's death will be brought to justice.

It was 10 years ago today (Thursday) that the body of Stuart Lubbock was discovered floating in the swimming pool at Mr Barrymore's luxury house in Beaumont Park Drive, Roydon, in 2001.

A post-mortem showed the 31-year-old father-of-two had suffered serious internal injuries suggestive of sexual assault. Traces of ecstasy, cocaine and alcohol were also found in his bloodstream.

The police investigation revealed that Mr Lubbock had gone to the house with a group of other people after meeting Mr Barrymore in a nightclub in Harlow.

By VICKY LANE
vicky.lane@hertsexnews.co.uk

Although three people – including Mr Barrymore – were arrested and questioned in June 2007 in relation to Stuart's death, no charges have ever been brought.

Mr Barrymore denied all knowledge of what happened on the night, but the publicity surrounding the incident effectively ended his career as one of the country's most successful entertainers. He no longer lives in Roydon.

Stuart's father Terry (66), of Great Brays, Harlow, has never waived in his belief that his son was sexually assaulted and murdered, and blames a series

'This could be my best shot at finding out what happened to Stuart'

of police mistakes for the failure to convict anyone for what happened.

In the years since Stuart's death, Mr Lubbock's health has suffered as he continued his personal battle. In 2009 he announced he was giving up the fight after suffering a seizure.

But this week he told the Star: "It's been 10 years now and I just can't let go of it. This could be my best shot at finally finding out what happened to Stuart that night."

"The investigation at the time was all a matter of incompetence. The pool area was never cordoned off, people were allowed to contaminate the scene and not everyone at the party was taken in for questioning."

"Of course, when they reopened the case six years later all the evidence was gone."

"By appealing on the 10th anniversary, hopefully someone somewhere will come forward with the information necessary for a conviction."

"My job is to keep going until somebody is finally tried in court for the murder of my son and I can finally have some peace of mind."

Following an open verdict at Stuart's inquest, the Lubbock family lodged a total of 36 complaints against Essex Police regarding their handling of the case.

A report by the Independent Police Complaints Commission in 2009 upheld six of them, including complaints that the crime scene had not been effectively preserved and that two potentially crucial pieces of evidence had gone missing.

A new investigation into Stuart's death was opened by Essex Police in 2006 and remains ongoing.

Assistant Chief Constable Gareth Wilson, of the Kent and Essex serious crime directorate, said: "I am convinced that somebody knows exactly what happened to Stuart and so far they have not shared this information with us."

"Ten years have now passed since his death and maybe those people who have harboured this information since 2001 feel the passage of time may make it easier to now come forward and tell police what they know."

Anyone with any information on Mr Lubbock's death should contact police on 0300 333 4444 or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555 111.

Cornerstone folds after funds dry up

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor
chris.moss@hertssexnews.co.uk

A CHARITY supporting people with learning difficulties has been forced to close after losing its main sources of funding.

The Cornerstone Trust has provided formal advocacy and training courses from its base at The Stow for almost 13 years but will shut up shop for good today (Thursday).

It has been left hamstrung by the closure of both the European Social Fund and the Department For Work & Pensions' Routeways To Work scheme, while attempts to secure a deal with the prime contractors supplying the DWP's new Work Programme have proved unsuccessful.

Coupled with rising overheads, the charity has been left in severe financial difficulty and trustees took the decision to close after a 30-day consultation with its 20 members of staff – all of whom now face redundancy.

Speaking to the Star yesterday (Wednesday), chief executive Wendy Grafton said: "The trustees have reached this very difficult and unwelcome decision in a very short space of time following confirmation that some of our funding sources have been withdrawn or not renewed."

"We have been seeking alternative funding sources but at this time all grant-making bodies find themselves totally overwhelmed by the number of applications from worthwhile causes."

"[This] has left the organisation significantly underfunded and unable to meet the rising overhead costs of running such an organisation, and therefore unable to continue to operate."

The charity hit the headlines last year after successfully fighting Harlow Council's attempts to almost triple its rent demands for the trust's headquarters.

Following protracted lease negotiations, a compromise deal was eventually struck that trustees hoped would secure the premises for a further three years. But just six months later the charity is set to close for good.

Harlow MP Rob Halfon said he was disappointed to learn of the closure but added that Government funding had not been the trust's only source of revenue.

"It is very sad that Cornerstone is now closing," he said. "I pay tribute to the hard work and dedication of many people who have worked so hard for many years for so many people. I am very sorry that this has happened."

"It appears that the charity received funds from a number of different agencies, including Essex County Council and the primary care trust."

He added that a transition fund had also been set up by the Government to help struggling charities, pointing out that Harlow Integration Support Services had only recently received £60,000 from it.

A picture of life after fire disasters

MURALS painted by a group of Harlow youngsters to celebrate the neighbourhood where they live were unveiled in the Harvey Centre at the weekend.

Children from the Berecroft estate, which was the scene of two serious fires in 2009 and 2010, were encouraged to paint a scene reflecting how the community had changed since those traumatic events.

The project was funded by the police-run initiative Love Harlow and supported by the Berecroft Residents' Association and Essex Pirates Basketball team.

The youngsters chose to make one large mural illustrating scenes from the most recent fire and a separate display demonstrating how the community has pulled together in its wake.

Berecroft Residents' Association secretary Zulgar Cheema said: "It was really good. The children enjoyed making the murals and lots of people stopped to have a look and talk to us about them."

"We would like to say thank you to everyone who helped with the project."

The children's work will be on display on the top floor of the Harvey Centre for the next few weeks.

Students' charity shop raises £470

HARLOW College students demonstrated their entrepreneurial skills when they opened up their own charity shop in the Harvey Centre for two days.

The students, who are all studying travel, tourism and public services, opened the 'Twice as Nice' shop following a challenge by college principal Colin Hindmarch to raise funds in a way that assists their college courses.

More than £470 was raised during the weekend, which the pupils decided to donate towards a special tricycle for an 11-year-old girl suffering from chromosomal deficiency.

Mr Hindmarch said: "The students enjoyed the experience immensely and it developed and highlighted many interpersonal skills that they were pleasantly surprised to find they had."

Hospital radio team picks up gold at national awards

THE team of volunteers working on Princess Alexandra Hospital's radio station were celebrating this week after striking gold at the National Hospital Radio Awards.

Harlow Hospital Radio picked up the gong for best station promotion - an on-air trailer for the station's annual pantomime - at the awards ceremony held in Maidstone on Saturday.

Station chairman Andy Meadows said: "To be honest this was quite a shock as, after hearing the other nominations, there were some excellent promos from all stations."

"The award is a real team success as one of the features the judges loved was the fact we had so many varied voices on one promo.

"It is nice to be recognised for the hard work and dedication we all put in, not just to this promo but also the running of the station and producing such excellent and varied shows.

He added: "Hopefully this will inspire the members to even greater achievements in the future."

Bus passenger's door trap agony

A BUS passenger suffered agonising injuries after the doors of the vehicle closed on her neck, trapping her for more than five minutes.

Patricia Holman, pictured left, suffered extensive damage to her vocal cords, widespread bruising and severe neck and back strain after getting trapped in the doors as she got off the Arriva bus on her way home from the bank.

The Churchfield pensioner, who works for a local engineering company, has been signed off for at least a week while she recovers from her injuries. She said that at the time she thought she was going to die.

"I was the first one to exit the bus at my stop," she explained.

"I had just started to get off when the doors suddenly closed, trapping my neck between them.

"I was so shocked. The doors just kept getting tighter and tighter and I could hardly breathe. I really thought that I was going to die."

She claims it took between 5-10 minutes before someone was able to release the malfunctioning doors.

"I don't know what took them so long," she said. "I could hear the driver shouting at pedestrians on the outside of the bus to press the button to open the doors, but no-one really knew what to do.

"When they finally opened I was in so much shock that I almost collapsed. I really do think that a couple of minutes longer and I'd have been dead. I couldn't breathe at all.

"The driver didn't say anything, not to even check if I was OK. He just drove off and I have since found out he didn't even report the incident. I'm still in shock about it now."

Because of the damage to her neck, Patricia has been unable to eat properly since Monday's accident. She even has to use a teaspoon to drink.

"I just think what if it had been a child," she said. "Then it could have been even more serious. I will never use a bus again after this. I'm just too scared."

A spokesperson from Arriva confirmed that it was one of the company's vehicles that had been involved in the incident, adding that they were concerned to hear of Ms Holman's injuries.

An internal investigation is currently under way.

How welfare reforms could affect your benefits

EVERYONE from the new-born to pensioners will be affected by plans to cut welfare expenditure.

The Budget confirmed the Coalition Government intends to cut the welfare bill by £18bn over the next three years.

Under the Welfare Reform Bill published in February, many current benefits will be abolished and replaced from 2013 with a Universal Credit.

However, some changes have already taken place, including a 40 per cent reduction in the mortgage interest rate used to calculate support paid to people with disabilities, pensioners, the unemployed and others who rely on benefits or pension credit to help pay their mortgage. Other cuts include the freezing of child benefit for three years from next month, the decision to increase the age at which it is possible to receive housing benefit for self-contained accommodation from 25 to 35 (April 2012) and the freezing of the savings credit element of the means-tested pension credit.

The Child Poverty Action Group estimates that a baby born to a low-income family from April 2011 will be around £1,500 a year worse off compared to a sibling born in April 2010.

However, a minority of people will see an increase in their benefits. They include most people with a severe visual impairment who will be able to claim the high rate of the mobility component of disability living allowance. Claimants must be aged three or over and under 65.

We won't take toilet closures sitting down

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor
chris.moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

FURIOUS pensioners have blasted Harlow Council's controversial decision to close public toilets across the town as "scandalous".

The cash-strapped authority plans to close facilities in the Town Park, Bush Fair and The Stow from tomorrow (Friday) to save £146,000 a year – but members of the Harlow Pensioners' Action Association want to see the proposals flushed away.

The group has set up a petition calling for the decision to be reversed and has so far collected about 750 signatures from people outraged at the impending closures.

Association chairman Les Coben told the Star: "It's not just us pensioners who are disgusted with the council's decision, we've had people of all ages come and sign our petition.

"The council obviously hasn't considered the huge impact these closures will have on the disabled, elderly and families with young children, not to mention those with medical conditions who rely on the availability of public conveniences to avoid being caught short when out and about.

"Public toilets are a vital frontline service. If the council is so desperate for money, why can't they trim back the salaries of some of their senior officers rather than denying the people who pay their extravagant wages the right to use public toilets?"

The group plan to stage a protest against the closures outside Harlow Civic Centre tomorrow (Friday) before handing in their petition.

"It might be April Fool's Day but we want to show the council we're no fools," Mr Coben added.

"Hopefully when the council see the strength of public feeling on this issue they'll reconsider this scandalous decision, but I'm not holding my breath."

The council is currently in talks with pubs, restaurants and shops over the possibility of opening their toilets up for public use.

Assistant chief executive Cath Shaw, said: "We want our shopping areas to be as friendly as possible to a wide range of visitors, so we are working with local businesses and shops to ensure there is plenty of toilet provision.

"The fact remains that the public toilets at Bush Fair, The Stow and School Lane were in a dilapidated state, under-used and disproportionately expensive to run. By the end it was costing council taxpayers over £20 for every single visit to these toilets by a member of the public."

She added the council would be willing to meet members of the HPPA to discuss the proposals and "put their minds at rest".

Flytipper fined for dumping trade waste in communal bin

A FLYTIPPER who travelled to Harlow to dump trade waste has been fined £10,000 after he was caught on camera.

Peter Bowditch was seen on two separate occasions in August last year dumping waste including cardboard boxes and commercial rubbish in a communal waste bin area at Edmunds Tower.

A resident photographed him and the evidence was used to bring the case to court.

Bowditch, from Braintree, pleaded guilty at Harlow Magistrates Court on Friday to two counts of flytipping and one of not having a waste carrier licence.

Lynn Seward, head of the council's customer and community services, said: "This is a great result for the council in our campaign to keep Harlow clean.

"It was completely wrong of Mr Bowditch to dump trade waste and some of his own rubbish in a communal bin area. It costs thousands of pounds to keep communal areas clean.

"The size of the fines in this case sends out a serious message that fly-tipping can really hit you in the pocket!"

Dad faces jail sentence for sex abuse and child cruelty charges

A FATHER convicted of indecent assault and gross indecency charges against his adopted daughter has been told by a judge that he will be jailed.

The 43-year-old, formerly of Harlow but now living in Herne Bay, also pleaded guilty to child cruelty but was cleared of sexually assaulting his natural daughter.

Chelmsford Crown Court was told that on a number of occasions the defendant, who cannot be named for legal reasons, had forced his adopted daughter to remain upside down in a laundry basket and had repeatedly sexually abused her over a two year period.

During his reign of terror he also hit her and told her: "Your dad's not here to help you any more."

Andrew McGee, prosecuting, said the offences had been committed when the defendant had been drinking or was drunk.

"He would often discipline her in a way that amounts to bullying and even his wife who witnessed the child cruelty offences was covered by him," he said. "He was bullying, verbally aggressive and controlling when in drink and sometimes physically violent to objects and people."

Although the man claimed the prosecution case was a pack of lies, he declined to give evidence in his own defence.

The court was told that in May 2000 he had been jailed for five years for attempted robbery.

Releasing the man on bail until May 16 when he will return to court to hear his sentence, judge David Turner said he would be going to jail and would also probably remain on the sex offenders register for life.

As a condition of his bail the man must reside at Herne Bay and was warned that if he did not return to court in May he will receive an additional sentence.

Pedestrian hurt in accident

A PEDESTRIAN was treated for minor injuries after being struck by a car in Howard Way, Harlow, during Tuesday morning's rush hour.

The accident happened at 8.10am and caused a backlog of traffic in the area.

The victim, a man in his 20s, was taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital where he was treated and discharged.

Views sought on plans for conservation area extension

A SIX-week consultation has begun on proposals to extend the conservation area in Old Harlow.

Harlow Council recently agreed to canvass opinion on its plan to designate a number of distinctive properties in St John's Avenue, Manor Road and The Hill into their own conservation area, in addition to the existing Old Harlow conservation area.

The properties were built in the 1920s as part of local entrepreneur Charles Scruby's plans for Harlow Garden Village, a rural idyll for city dwellers wanting to escape from the confines of the capital. Although the ambitious project – which also included plans for sports and leisure facilities – was never completed in its entirety, it remains an impressive example of the influential 'garden village' movement which helped inspire Sir Frederick Gibberd's masterplan for Harlow New Town.

The council has now published a document outlining proposals to allow residents to express their views. The document can be viewed online at www.harlow.gov.uk/conservation.

All written responses should be received by 5pm on May 2.

Disco boost for hospice funds

AN over-30s disco will be held next week in aid of St Clare Hospice.

Organisers of the party night at Roydon Marina Village will donate 20 per cent of the proceeds to the Hastingwood hospice.

Spokeswoman Gill Barrow said: "There will be a top DJ playing all the chart favourites and everyone who attends will get entered into a free raffle.

"There is always such a good atmosphere at these events and anyone who comes along is sure to have a great time."

The party night takes place on Friday, April 8 at Hendersons in Roydon Marina Village from 8.30pm until 1am. Admission is £7 on the door or £6 in advance. For more information call 01344 870277.

Regeneration team's design guide legacy

THE organisation set up to drive forward the regeneration of Harlow bowed out on Friday with the publication of a new design guide and the launch of four final pieces of work.

Harlow Renaissance was established in 2006 by Harlow Council, Essex County Council, the East of England Development Agency and English Partnerships.

But last September it announced it would cease operating at the end of the current financial year after learning its two main sources of revenue – the Homes & Communities and Communities & Local Government agencies – would be pulling their funding in the wake of Government spending cuts.

Before the plug was pulled on March 25, Renaissance announced the launch of a new design guide which it claims will protect the town's distinctive features by prescribing a specific "look and feel" for any future development within Harlow.

Produced in partnership with Harlow Council, it has been adopted by the authority as supplementary planning guidance, meaning developers adhering to its principles will benefit from a more favourable response to their planning applications.

Renaissance chief executive Andrew Bramidge explained: "We're delighted that, by working in partnership with Harlow Council, Harlow Renaissance has helped to create a robust, exciting and workable design guide which provides encouragement and issues a challenge to developers.

"Effectively, what we are saying is rise to the challenge of this guide and you will benefit from a smoother passage on the design aspects of your planning application".

He added: "That's good news for developers because it gives them clarity and an incentive.

"More importantly, it's good news for Harlow because it will encourage higher quality development and deliver better places and spaces for everyone in the town to enjoy."

The firm also revealed its final contributions towards the ongoing project to rebrand the town – a new 'places to visit' brochure, two short promotional films, an educational resources pack and a series of information boards celebrating key events in the town's history.

Communications manager Nicky Bowland said the work was a fitting swansong for an organisation dedicated to changing unfair preconceptions of Harlow.

"Harlow: See Something Different has, through partnership work, set the vision for the town, challenging preconceptions, increasing recognition and inviting dialogue and discussion," she said.

"It is taking us from how Harlow has been seen historically towards how we would all like Harlow to be viewed – as a place of opportunity, with a can-do attitude and a rich cultural landscape.

"We are delighted to be able to present our final contribution to this campaign which showcases the wonderful attributes of Harlow."

The bulk of Renaissance's responsibilities will now be absorbed by Harlow Council. The authority's chief executive Malcolm Morley, thanked the company's staff for their "important" work in spearheading the regeneration plans.

"Harlow Renaissance achieved a great deal in supporting the creation of the energy and momentum that is improving Harlow," he told the Star.

"The Harlow Renaissance board members were ambassadors for the town as a great place to live, work and to do business.

"The council is grateful for their contribution and it will continue to work in partnership to ensure that their contribution leads to the tangible delivery of the potential of Harlow."

The wash and shine brigade

FIREFIGHTERS turned their hoses onto a steady stream of vehicles when they cleaned up for charity at a fundraising car wash in Old Harlow. Crews from Old Harlow and Ongar worked flat out in the car park at the rear of the High Street shops to put the shine back into more than 100 cars and raise £720 for The Firefighters Charity.

"The turnout was fantastic and we would like to thank all the people who had their cars cleaned and donated so generously," said firefighter Paul Storey.

"There were six firefighters from Ongar and eight of us from Old Harlow and it was hard work all day long. We didn't have a single break where there wasn't a car to clean."

The money will be used by the charity to provide treatment and support to firefighters injured in the line of duty.

OAP held in custody

A PENSIONER accused of sexually touching an 11-year-old girl has been remanded in custody until April 4.

Lawrence Bonello (76), of Spinning Wheel Mead, Harlow, appeared at Chelmsford Crown Court on Tuesday.

The offence is alleged to have taken place on November 4 last year.

The hearing was adjourned after the Chelmsford Crown Court asked for time to consider pre-trial psychiatric reports.

Drug user begs judge to send him to prison

By COURT REPORTER
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A DRUG addict who threatened to infect supermarket security staff with the Aids virus when he was caught stealing has been jailed for 16 months after pleading with a judge to send him to prison so he could kick his habit.

Jason Heath (37) of Ladysnot, Harlow, was told by judge David Turner, sitting at Chelmsford Crown Court, that his behaviour when arrested was "ugly, intimidating and very frightening".

The court was told that CCTV cameras were focused on Heath as soon as he entered the Tesco store at Church Langely on February 5 because he was well-known for stealing meat.

He was caught taking £152.96 worth of goods in two bags which he dumped outside the store before running off.

When two security staff caught him, Heath pulled out an item from his pocket and made threats.

Sophia Ewulo, prosecuting, said: "He told them he had a knife. He said he had got HIV and he would stab them with it."

The court was told that he then raised a needle-like item and the security staff let him go, but he was arrested by police soon after in a small wooded area where he dropped a packet of syringes.

Heath, who pleaded guilty to theft and threatening behaviour, also asked for five other offences of shoplifting to be taken into consideration.

He was also in breach of a nine-month prison sentence which had been suspended for 18 months, imposed at St Albans Crown Court in January for stealing a trolley full of goods from a shop.

Ian Boyes, representing Heath, said in mitigation his client was a heroin and crack cocaine user who wanted to be punished twice – in the first instance to go to prison for breaching the previous suspended sentence so he could come off drugs and then later for the shoplifting offence at Tesco so he could get support for when he came out.

The judge activated the previous sentence in full and added a further seven months for the latest offences, telling Heath he had been given chances in the past and he was no longer prepared to do that.

He added: "It was a pretty mean and desperate way to behave. People who serve the public as security staff deserve better and not to be treated in that ugly and intimidating and very frightening way."

Nobel Prize winner honoured

ALMOST 100 people gathered at The Water Gardens in Harlow town centre on Friday for the official unveiling of a plaque commemorating the work of Nobel Prize-winning scientist Sir Charles Kao.

Sir Charles, one of two scientists credited with the invention of fibre optic communications, made his revolutionary discovery while working at telecoms firm STL (now Nortel) in London Road during the 1980s.

The blue plaque honouring his achievements now adorns the same wall as a stone commemorating New Town masterplanner Sir Frederick Gibberd.

Speaking after Friday's unveiling, Harlow Civic Society chairman Stan Newens said: "It was wonderful to see so many people turn up for the unveiling of a plaque commemorating one of Harlow's truly inspirational stories."

"Fibre optics is something of worldwide importance and it was born in Harlow."

"Charles Kao's success should be regarded as a tremendous inspiration for the town's youngsters and an example of what hard work and determination can achieve."

Share tips for Wills and Kate street party celebrations

HARLOW residents planning to throw street parties for the Royal wedding are being encouraged to share their plans on a new Facebook community page.

Essex County Council has already been notified of more than 50 parties taking place across the county and has set up the new webpage as a forum for organisers to spread the word about their plans, share tips and ideas and talk about what makes a good celebration.

With the wedding of Prince William and Kate Middleton taking place on Friday, April 29, residents are also being reminded to make their street party plans as soon as possible to avoid disappointment.

Applications for road closures made directly to County Hall must be received by the end of today (Thursday) while those requiring Temporary Event Notices must submit their requests to Harlow Council by April 12.

County council leader Peter Martin said: "The Royal Wedding is an ideal opportunity for Essex residents to show their community spirit and make the event a memorable occasion for everyone."

"We want to hear from everyone who is organising a street party in Essex, however big or small, so join the discussion online and let us know what you have planned."

Residents can access the Facebook page by visiting www.facebook.com and searching for Royal Wedding Street Parties in Essex.

Halfon demands town's fair share of road repair cash

HARLOW MP Robert Halfon has called for assurances that the town will get its fair share of a £5.3m Government grant being given to Essex County Council to help pay for pothole repairs.

The money, announced during last week's Budget, is part of an additional £200m of funding allocated to highway authorities to tackle the damage caused during the severe winter weather.

Transport secretary Philip Hammond said the funding, which was doubled by the Government, was possible because of Department of Transport budget savings for 2010-11.

Mr Halfon said: "I have already been in contact with Norman Hume [highways and transportation cabinet member at Essex County Council] to stress the importance that Harlow gets its fair share of the additional Government money."

He added: "All motorists will be well aware of stretches of road in and around

Harlow where potholes remain unrepaired following the bad weather we had last December.

"I welcome the news that this additional funding has been made available and it is vital that the much-needed repairs to our roads are carried out as soon as possible."

Hip hop dancers to perform for Race for Life

A TROUPE of street dancers will be springing into action on Saturday to encourage local women to 'join the girls' at the Cancer Research UK's Race for Life in Harlow.

Harlow's Hip Hop Pop squad will be rallying the town's teens, twentysomethings, aunts, mums and grandmothers to enter the women-only charity event which will be taking place in Harlow Town Park on Sunday May 15.

The group, who usually perform at The Playhouse, will spend the afternoon demonstrating their funky moves at the Water Gardens to draw attention to the Cancer Research UK fundraiser which this year aims to recruit over 4,000 participants.

Coach Jenny Bater said: "We are delighted to show our support for Race for Life. We hope that seeing us perform will draw attention to this fantastic event and convey some of the spirit of fun and sisterhood which makes Race for Life such a great day out."

So far this year 1,640 women have signed up to take part in the town's biggest fundraising event which is again being supported by the Star.

Organisers have set a fundraising target for this year's event of £315,000.

All women regardless of age, fitness level or ability can take part by walking, jogging or running either the 5k or 10k route.

To sign up, log on to the website at www.raceforlife.org or call 0871 641 1111.

Plans in hand for two-day festival

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor
chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE organiser of a successful Harlow music festival is calling on local businesses to help make this year's event even bigger and better.

Jamie Pring, the man behind last year's inaugural Linkfest, hopes to expand the live music extravaganza into a two-day event. But he needs sponsors willing to stump up the cash to make his dream of a mini-Glastonbury a reality.

Harlow Council has already provisionally agreed to let Mr Pring stage the event in Harlow Town Park over the August Bank Holiday weekend but he needs to raise around £25,000 to cover running costs.

"Last year's event was a huge success and I want to build on that to make this year's festival even bigger," he said.

"It would be a fantastic community event in the spirit of the huge rock concerts that used to be staged in the Town Park, and as long as we can get the funding I've got some great bands lined up to play."

The free festival is pencilled in to take place on Saturday, August 27 and Sunday, August 28, with the first day featuring local bands chosen by The Square and the second featuring some of the country's top tribute acts.

"Linkfest was an all-ticket event but this year I wanted to make the festival free," said Mr Pring. "After all, it's something that we're trying to do for the benefit of the whole community."

"With the tough times we're all going through at the moment this would be the perfect way to put a smile back on to people's faces, bring communities together and help them forget their troubles for a while."

"But unless I get help from local businesses or generous donors wanting to give something back to the community while raising their profile in the town, it won't happen. It's as simple as that."

For more information or to offer to sponsor the festival, contact Mr Pring directly via email at geoffrypring@btinternet.com.

Dig your way out of that!

WORK on a pond extension in a Harlow nature reserve came to an abrupt halt when one of the mechanical diggers working on the project came a cropper in marshland.

The digger was being used as part of ongoing improvements at the Maymeads Marsh Nature Reserve, off Burnt Mill Lane. It had to be left overnight until a recovery vehicle was available to pull it free.

A Harlow resident who spotted the submerged digger, while out for a walk said: "I just saw it sticking out of the water and thought that looks odd; someone is going to be in trouble over this!

"It seemed to have damaged all the pond area around it which obviously isn't very good for the wildlife."

Graeme Bloomer, head of regulation at Harlow Council confirmed that the digger had got stuck in marshland at the edge of the pond last Thursday. "There were no injuries and no risk to any of the volunteers working on the wildlife project there and the digger was pulled free by recovery vehicles the next day," he said.

"The work to extend the pond will continue but our biodiversity officers will have to look at the best technical solution for doing that when working on softer ground.

"This is an area rich in wildlife and we want to create the best possible long-term habitat for them."

According to the website harlowwildlife.org.uk, more than 100 species of bird have been recorded at the site, including rare species such as little ringed plover, ringed ouzel, greenshank, jack snipe, redstart, and bittern.

The remaining grassland is also rich in wild flower species such as the southern marsh orchid and cowslips.

Builder hanged himself from tree with dog lead

A BUILDER who had a large amount of business debt was found hanged in a copse near his Harlow home, an inquest heard this week.

Paul Payton (38), of Great Auger Street, had taken his dog for a walk but never returned.

His wife, Melanie, raised the alarm and a friend found him in the early hours of October 22 last year hanging from a tree by the dog chain and lead.

Essex assistant deputy coroner Chinyere Inyama was told there were no suspicious circumstances.

Coroner's officer Paul Roberts said Mr Payton had been discussing declaring himself bankrupt with a friend before his death.

On the evening of October 21 he and his wife went out socialising and he was described as being in a very good mood.

Cause of death was given as asphyxia due to suspension by ligature.

The coroner recorded an open verdict, saying he was not satisfied Mr Payton intended to take his own life.

Academy moves are being driven by fear

SIR, As reported in last week's Star, Passmore School has decided to convert to Academy status from next September and Mark Hall, Stewards and Burnt Mill governing bodies are now consulting about their schools also converting.

A National Union of Teachers' resolution against Academies was recently passed by secondary school teachers and schoolworkers in Harlow. Although Passmore's staff seem to have been persuaded by their head, Stewards staff voted against while Mark Hall and Burnt Mill staff voted by margins of 60-0 and 56-0. So why do teachers consider the move to Academy status to be bad for children, parents, teachers and communities?

Currently, schools belong to the whole community. State schools belong to the public – the communities in which they are set. Conversion to Academy status removes schools from the public sector. The land and the buildings will transfer to private ownership. Academies are not democratic. They are not accountable to the local authority so they are not accountable to the public. Their governors are appointed, not elected. Academies are not covered by Freedom of Information legislation. They will effectively become private companies in our midst.

Every Academy can set their own terms and conditions. This proposal will see the end of national negotiations, with headteachers and governors setting pay and conditions school by school. The Government has even planned to scrap the TUPE arrangements which allowed staff to transfer with their current arrangements. This could lead to a drain of good teachers from Harlow as staff seek to retain their rights by moving to state schools in other towns.

Fill holes before you paint

LETTER OF THE WEEK

The Star has teamed up with Sheaffer, the prestige pen maker, to offer our correspondents the chance to win a stylish Sheaffer 300 worth almost £30. The writer of the Letter of the Week, as chosen by the editor, will win this quality Sheaffer roller ball pen. For further information go to www.sheaffer.com.

SIR, I have just noticed a team of men painting the roads in yellow textured paint and putting new zigzags at the traffic lights opposite the bus terminus in Harlow.

It looks very nice but has no-one noticed all the potholes still in the roads in Harlow? Who sat in a meeting and decided that painting the roads a different colour is more important than filling in the holes which have a detrimental effect on our suspension, tyres and fuel economy which in turn has a negative effect on our carbon emissions as a town?

There are so many reasons why the holes being filled is more important than yellow roads on approach to pedestrian crossings. In fact, I can't think of a single advantage for yellow Tarmac.

Yes, it's marginally more grippy than the standard black stuff but have a lot of people been knocked over at these lights? I certainly don't remember reading about it. If they have, I do hope they haven't been charged with anything as investigations must have shown the road surface was to blame.

In Hornbeams a few potholes were filled but whoever repaired the roads left one which was no more than 15 feet away from the ones they repaired. The hole in question is about 150mm x 150mm and 100mm deep. It's a big, noticeable, clunky hole but I suppose those in charge of our roads were too busy deciding what colour to paint the perfectly good black one in Harlow.

Then take the approach to Brocks Mead. I've been through smoother farmer's fields than that. Surely the very same men who are knocking up a highways version of Van Gogh's Sunflowers could have filled that in a day and still had time to maybe do a small version of a classic Monet on the pavement.

Seriously, who sat in a meeting and actually got people to agree the roads were the wrong colour? This is our money they are spending. The person in question must be a Biblically skilled salesman to pass that idea as even remotely important.

An answer of some sort would be nice, but what would be nicer is for them to just fill in the holes before they paint the roads.

Ian Witteridge
address supplied - Editor

There is no evidence that Academy status improves schools. Academy ownership can also be easily transferred from one academy to another. The current headteachers are good people but conversion will leave Harlow open to predatory Academies who may put profit before education.

Currently Academies get a bigger slice of the pot than state schools but they have to buy in services. There is no long-term guarantee about income and the cost of bought-in services will inevitably rise, so in the long-term there is not extra money.

Conversion to Academy status could also mean that Harlow schools face huge rebuilding bills that could bankrupt them. Massive insurance policies will lead to bigger classes and redundancies that, in turn, will be unaffordable.

So why are Academies being proposed? Primarily, fear that the Government might make them compulsory, fear that predatory Academies will take them over, fear that if one or two go public perception will lead to a two-tier system in Harlow.

But these fears hold little water. A year ago teachers in Harlow supported the idea of a Harlow Educational Trust, a collaborative organisation to bind Harlow schools together in a progressive partnership of strength. We believe this trust should be given time to grow and develop. We believe that our strength is in working together, not only with each other but as an integral part of the Harlow community.

The Harlow public has the opportunity to say no to the privatisation of education in our town. Even the ill-judged decision by Passmore can still be reversed. Please take the opportunity to voice your opinion. Say no to Academies in Harlow.

Murray Sackwild, general secretary
Harlow and Epping Forest NUT

Nobody asked us about bin changes

SIR, I read with interest the letter from Roy Adams regarding refuse bin collection from the rear of his property (Letters, March 24). I have to say I am surprised that he and his neighbours have been able to continue to use the alley for this purpose. We were in a similar situation in Paddock Mead and assumed that when the new bins came into use we would be able to have them collected from the rear. How wrong we were.

After several discussions with the team involved with the introduction of the new scheme, we were visited by the team leader who advised us that the rear alleyway was too narrow for the bins to be collected from and that we would have to wheel them round to the front of the property to be collected or store them at the front.

What an absolute eyesore they are. Also, wherever they are stored at the front they are under a window which is a safety issue and goes against the advice given in the council's leaflet.

What is so annoying about this is that when we originally moved into our home we had to put all of our refuse in the back alley to be collected. Apparently this was changed when the job went to tender and negotiated as a time and cost-cutting issue. Pity nobody asked our opinion.

So, Mr Adams, good luck but I think you will find you're fighting a lost cause.

Paddock Mead, Harlow

Clamp down now on badly parked buses

SIR, I would like to offer my agreement to the letter from Stephen Dodd (Letters, March 24). I work at the Burnt Mill industrial estate off Elizabeth Way and like Temple Bank it has terrible trouble with coaches and buses.

As you enter the estate you see coaches and buses not only parked on double yellow lines but mounted on the pavement, preventing pedestrians from using the pathway.

When and if the buses finally move, you are left with the horrifying sight of a pavement that has been damaged beyond recognition. The kerb has been completely destroyed and the pavement is in a very sorry state indeed. It is also a safety issue because vehicles are forced on to the wrong side of the road when going round the bend into the estate because the buses are blocking one side of the road. I have written to the council and got a very polite reply, but I haven't seen any evidence of words being turned into action.

Across the road from the estate are the Hornbeams and Rivermill residential areas. I regularly see traffic wardens handing out tickets in these streets to car users who do not have the correct parking permit. It would take no more than couple of minutes for these wardens to venture round the corner to the industrial estate and monitor the double yellow lined area.

I think we would have more respect for the way Harlow Council enforces parking if it dealt an equal hand to both car users and bus companies. You can't help but think that because these companies have to work closely with the council providing services for the town that a blind eye is turned by when they contravene parking regulations.

Hadley Grange, Harlow

It's wrong to close our Surestart cafés

SIR, I recently found out that the cafés at the Meadows and Treetops Surestart children centres will be closing at the end of this month due to a cut in funding.

These cafés offer cheap healthy cooked meals for children and parents in a relaxing environment where you don't have to worry if you are disturbing other customers, or just somewhere to have a cup of tea while your children can play.

I understand that budgets have been cut across so many services but it is such a shame that these cafés are closing and I worry that it is the first step to losing our Surestart centres altogether. They are a lifeline for many mums in Harlow.

There is a petition that has been started at both of these centres if people would like to support the need to keep these services going.

New roundabout a source of confusion

SIR, It was with some trepidation that I approached the new 'hamburger' junction in Harlow. It would seem that continuous travel along the A414 is relatively straightforward but the rest of the junction seems to be creating much confusion as well as dangerous driving.

The signposts notifying drivers which lane to be in leave a lot to be desired. It would seem that when on the A414 and wishing to turn right onto the A1169 from either end you have to be in the left hand lane. It also seems impossible to get all the way around in one go, as although the first set of lights are green, the next are inevitably red.

This also means that when trying to turn right onto the A1169 and being in the left hand lane, you face cutting up anyone turning right onto the A414 from the A1169.

This is only part of the problem; the short distance at which the A414 turns into a single lane road is not long enough and people travelling at speed will be in for a shock.

And what will happen when drivers begin to block the yellow hatch, which again is an inevitability? Not only will the traffic back up, but it will create potential for accidents when this is combined with drivers travelling through a green light at speed along the A414. I myself witnessed a three-vehicle accident here yesterday and there has been at least one other that I know about.

It would seem that the clown in charge of making those famous hamburgers was also in charge of this now infamous roundabout.

Plaque honour should be shared

SIR, Further to your report about the unveiling of a plaque in honour of Dr Charles Kao, there were in fact two scientists involved with the invention of fibre optics – Dr George Hockham and Dr Kao.

Dr Kao was indeed honoured with a Nobel Prize (singularly unjustified in my opinion) but that is how that institution operates.

As both of these scientists worked in Harlow on the invention of this project they should both be honoured on the plaque. You will also find that Rank Cintel awarded a merit prize, not singularly but to both of their work.

I object to the fact that only one of these scientists is to be acknowledged on the plaque when there should be two. Harlow is not being very noble or inventive in this matter.

ST LUKE'S PRIMARY: A group of pupils from the Pyenest Road school took part in a huge fundraising concert at Wembley Arena in aid of the UK's largest children's charity.

After months of preparation, 47 youngsters in the school choir joined pupils from 50 other schools to put on the show, which raised more than £200,000 for Barnardo's.

Performing songs by such groups as Queen and Take

That, the children spent a full day rehearsing before joining up in the evening to perform for the fully-packed arena.

Teacher Franz Roberts said: "The children were all very excited and did a fantastic job, especially considering what a long day it was for them all."

"The whole event was extremely well organised and all the children both behaved brilliantly and really enjoyed themselves."

STEWARDS: Pupil representatives from the Parnall Road secondary attended the annual Commonwealth Observance Day service at Westminster Abbey.

The annual multi-faith celebration of the Commonwealth of Nations took place in the presence of the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh and included representatives from all 53 Commonwealth countries.

In acknowledgement of this year's theme 'Women as Agents of Change', addresses were given by Her Majesty as well as pop superstar Annie Lennox and the Poet Laureate, Carol Ann Duffy.

More than 1,000 young people were invited to join in with the colourful and lively celebrations, which also featured dancers and musicians from all over the world.

said: "It was an inspirational day for all those involved and the girls came away with a sense of pride and purpose which will stay with all of us for a very long time."

(s)

KINGSMOOR PRIMARY: Children, staff and parents set the wheels in motion for a healthier lifestyle when they helped to officially open a new bike shed at the school in Ployters Road.

Funded by Essex County Council, the bike shelter is part of sustainable transport charity Sustrans' Bike It campaign which aims to encourage more children to cycle to school.

It will also help the school in their race for The Big Pedal, a national virtual bike race where schools compete for the highest number of student cyclists.

Teacher Angie Winder said: "This is the first bike shed the school has ever had and already there has been a huge uptake by the students. After only week we were the top school in Essex for the Big Pedal!"

"The whole scheme is brilliant and really helps to encourage our children to live a healthy and positive lifestyle."

New 'rules' for market square

By VICKY LANE

vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk

WHEN Harlow Council set about tightening up the regulations for the town centre market back in the mid-1970s, stallholders wasted no time making it known how they felt about the new arrangements.

The measures were introduced in a bid to tackle the problem of "stall spreading" – pitches that exceeded the permitted space – following a number of complaints from the public about walkways being blocked with market produce.

"Everyone was told that they must all keep within the limits of their stalls and a superintendent would go around keeping an eye on things," explained regular Nostalgia contributor Ron Bill.

"But some of the traders took objection to it and so decided to issue their own set of Market Rules in protest."

As a way of mocking the council's new regulations, members of The Market Traders Association put together a leaflet, above, and handed out hundreds throughout the town.

Under the heading 'Big Brother is watching you' it listed the following market 'rules':

1. All junctions on market in future will have traffic lights
2. All prams will be regulation size. These can be purchased from the Town Hall on Monday and Wednesday between 2-3.30pm
3. Pram wardens will patrol the market giving on the spot fines for double parking

4. All stallholders will give a regulation salute to any member of the council market committee if they pass within two yards of their stall

5. All umbrellas will be square

6. Stallholders will be careful not to let anything protrude outside the regulation limits of their stall. Anything sticking out will be chopped off

7. All stallholders will draw from council stores before 9 one stall repair kit

8. Any member of the public caught standing still for longer than 10 minutes without making any purchase will be classed as an extension and charged rent.

"It was all good fun really," said Ron. "Everyone, including the council, responded well and thought the new rules were very funny."

● Were you a stallholder back in the 1970s? Did you have a hand in drawing up the MTA's list of Market Rules? Let us know by writing to Nostalgia 6 West Gate, Harlow, CM20 1JW or email vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk

DO YOU REMEMBER: The Pied Piper of Harlow

SEVERAL readers have been in touch since we printed a photograph of actress Carole Ann Ford signing autographs at Harlow Day in 1962.

The annual event would draw crowds from miles around, including some very big stars.

David Tweedie, of Potter Street, wrote in after spotting himself in the photo with Carole and said he vaguely remembered Tommy Cooper appearing as the Pied Piper at a previous Harlow Day.

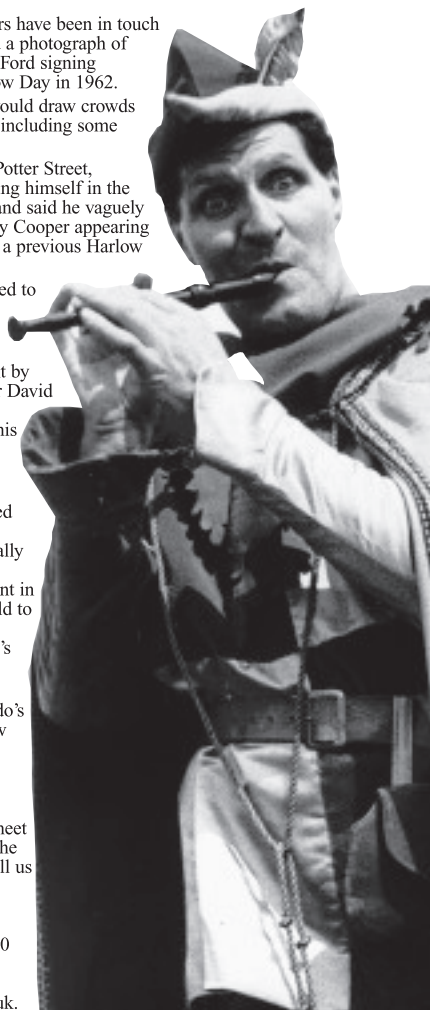

David will be pleased to know his memory is spot on – and here is the proof.

The picture was lent by local history officer David Devine and shows Tommy Cooper in his starring role as the 'Pied Piper of Harlow'.

Mr Devine explained that the legendary comedian was actually taking part in the Barnardo's Day event in 1959 which was held to raise funds for the Barnardo's children's home at Warlies in Upshire.

He added: "Barnardo's Day became Harlow Day and from that became the Harlow Town Show."

● Did you get to meet Tommy Cooper at the Barnardo's Day? Tell us your memories by writing to Nostalgia 6 West Gate, Harlow, CM20 1JW or email vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk.

Not quite Diana

More than 600 people attended Whispers nightclub on Thursday to see Diana Ross performing on stage. Rumours that the superstar was coming to Harlow had started circulating after a local newspaper advertised that a 'Supreme Lady' would be appearing at the popular club. However, a closer inspection proved that this was not the singing superstar herself but a very good lookalike called Diana Keen.

Safe and sorry

Burgling thieves who stole a safe from The Stow Snooker and Social Club early on Tuesday morning ended up abandoning it unopened. Police believe they manhandled it out of an upstairs window on to the roof and then dropped it on to the pavement, cracking paving stones where it landed. However, they were forced to abandon it because it was too heavy to move.

Cancer furore

A public outcry and protest from MPs may save a hospital cancer unit which serves patients from Harlow and Epping. The unit at the North Middlesex Hospital has been threatened with closure following a review of its services. Local cancer patients would face the prospect of having to stay over night in hostels because of the long journey to other units if the plans go ahead.

WIN return flights from London Stansted to Belfast

A NEW service between London Stansted and Belfast City Airport was started on Monday by airline bmibaby – the only airline to operate this route. To celebrate the launch, we are giving you the chance to win one of two pairs of return tickets from Stansted to Belfast.

Flights to Belfast City operate three times a day from Monday to Friday, with one service on Sunday. Fares start from just £19.99 one way (including taxes). Northern Ireland's capital city has successfully reinvented itself as home of the craic, where a pint and a party are never far away. The locals are friendly, the Guinness flows freely, and there's culture and shopping galore. It's a great place to kick back and have some fun.

Your flight to Belfast City Airport means you're only a short hop from the city centre. If it's shopping you're after, there is a lot on offer, including Spires shopping mall for designer label clothing, and Victoria Square, which houses more than 50 stores, including House of Fraser, Top Shop and H&M.

Simon steps up to aid autism charity

vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE uncle of young boy with autism is preparing to walk 30 miles from East India Docks to Harlow Mill to raise awareness about the disorder.

Simon Finch, from Old Harlow, whose nine-year-old nephew Cameron was diagnosed with a mild form of the condition a few months ago, decided to organise the fundraising trek to coincide with World Autism Day on April 2.

He will be following the route of the navigational River Lea and River Stort. Simon said it was seeing the improvements in Cameron, who struggles with learning and general social interaction, since he was diagnosed that made him want to increase understanding about the condition.

"I think autism is one of those things that you don't really know about unless it affects you," he explained. "And yet one thing I have learned over the months is how many of us are affected by autism but don't know it. That's why I wanted to do this walk, to raise awareness. Autism can come in so many different forms yet however mild, it is so important to be diagnosed so that the right measures can be taken to help you."

"Since Cameron was diagnosed he is now getting the right learning support and the whole family have learnt to adapt to help him. It's making such a difference."

As well as raising awareness about autism, Simon hopes to raise £1,000 for the National Autistic Society, which provides information and support to families.

He added: "I would ask everyone who can help in any small way to please donate and support this group. Autism affects so many people and it really is important to give such individuals and families as much support as we can."

Disco fundraiser for PAH baby unit

A MOTHER who suffered serious complications during childbirth is holding a fundraising disco for the special care unit at Princess Alexandra Hospital that saved her baby's life.

When Charlene Wood's daughter Madleigh was born early weighing just 2 lbs 7oz, she feared for the worst.

But staff in PAH's special care baby unit took care of the tot and after seven weeks she was able to go home.

Charlene (24), from Tye Green, said: "Raising money for the baby unit is really close to my heart after what they did for Madleigh and I just thought a disco would be a great way to raise a lot of money."

"Everyone is welcome and everyone is sure to have a brilliant night!"

The disco is taking place at the Great Parndon Community Association in Staple Tye on Saturday, April 16 from 7.30pm. Tickets, which must be brought in advance, cost £4 for adults with free admission for children. For more information, call Charlene on 07791670471.

Grant lifeline for integration group

A CHARITY providing support and advice to ethnic minorities, refugees and migrants in Harlow has received £60,000 of Government funding.

The future of Integration Support Services, which aims to improve the lives of the town's immigrant communities and the indigenous population through education and welfare support, was in doubt after their main source of funding was cut.

However, the new grant from the Government's Transition Fund, will provide the organisation with enough time to organise other options.

"It was quite a relief when we found out," said chief executive Momoza Matoshi. "We have suffered dramatically since money from the Migration Impact Fund, which had been supplying 95 per cent of our funding, was stopped."

"We are currently in the process of arranging new partnerships and I am now very confident that we will be able to provide our unique service for the long term future."

For more information on Integration Support Services, visit www.iss.org.uk.

Stroke survivor Anna seeks to help others get back on track

A YOUNG stroke victim is appealing for donations so that she can start rehabilitation fitness classes for other people affected by the disorder.

Mother-of-one Anna Higgs (31), who suffered a stroke on Christmas Day six years ago, wants to run fitness classes similar to the ones that have helped with her recovery. But first she needs to raise £675 to pay for the specialist training course.

Anna, of Potter Street, Harlow, said: "I was only 25 when I had my stroke and it turned my whole world upside down."

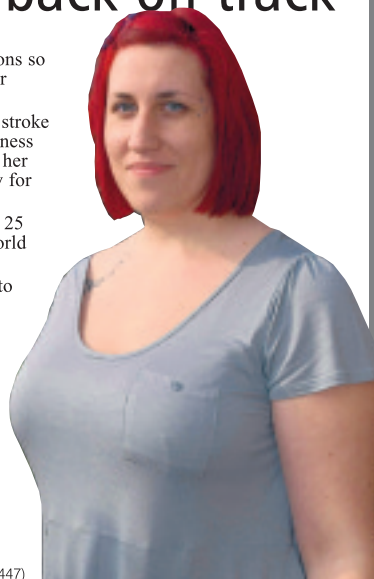

"I was in hospital for four months and then had to spend almost four years learning how to walk again. It was only recently that I was strong enough to be able to go into a gym and I just loved it."

"It has helped me to improve my stamina and has, most importantly, helped me to get my confidence back."

She added: "It has been so successful that I just want to share my experience with other stroke victims and help them to also get their lives back on track."

To make a donation towards Anna's appeal, contact her by email at higgsa@sky.com.

Mum's the word for the Midnight Walk

MOTHER-of-two Sandra Petchey has taken part in the St Clare Hospice Midnight Walk in Harlow every year since it started.

Sandra has been joined by a team of colleagues from the Stansted Surgery and, two years ago, encouraged her daughters, Lisa and Laura, to join in the fun.

"I have done the Midnight Walk since it began and it is always a fun night out," said Sandra. "The atmosphere is amazing and everyone really gets into it."

"I especially love when you walk through the dark tunnels and all you can see are hundreds of flashing bunny ears... there is something magical about it. I also rather like the firemen; they definitely give you a lift when you are half way through the walk!"

Laura, who is now part of the St Clare fundraising team, added: "I've been amazed by how many people give up their time for free to volunteer here and by how many patients are laughing and joking in the building all the time."

"The fundraising team do a fantastic job of generating the money needed to pay for the special care provided. Having walked the Midnight Walk and seen how much fun it is as part of a large group, I'm loving being part of the team organising it this year. It is going to be the best yet."

Every year it costs £2.6m to run the hospice which serves the people of West Essex and the borders of East Herts. Only 24 per cent of that comes from the NHS, leaving St Clare with the task of raising £5,000 each week to provide free year-round care to more than 50 patients and their families.

Organisers are hoping to persuade 1,500 people to take part in this year's 10km walk around Harlow on SATURDAY, JUNE 18. Over the past three years a staggering £290,000 has been raised by the Midnight Walk and this year, with the Star's support, the hospice want to make it a total of £400,000.

Events fundraiser Tracy Stratford said: "We're urging all mums to do something extra special this Mothers' Day and sign up to walk with their daughters and/or sons. You can even invite other friends and family to join in, too."

"This is a fantastic night out with a difference. By signing up you will be helping us to raise vital funds in order to care for the mums living with terminal illnesses".

If you sign up by the end of today (Thursday), joint entry will cost just £20. From tomorrow, the entry fee will return to £15 per person.

Everyone who takes part will receive a 'I painted the town pink' T-shirt and goody bag.

To register online, go to www.stclarehospice.org.uk. Alternatively, you can call the events team on (01279) 773750 to request an entry form or fill in the coupon on this page.

Vicki's quick on the draw to pick winner of hospice's spring raffle

ACTRESS Vicki Michelle said 'Allo 'Allo staff and patients at St Clare Hospice when she popped in on Friday to pick the winner of the spring raffle.

Vicki, best known for her character Yvette Carte-Blanche in the hit BBC comedy series, was taken on a tour of the Hastingwood facility and chatted to patients and doctors about the work of the hospice.

Vicki is a keen ambassador in the charity sector and received an MBE in last year's Birthday Honours List for her services to charity.

She said: "What a fabulous day to celebrate the £35,000 raised through the hospice raffle and to see how the money will be spent."

"It was lovely to meet some of the patients and discover how positive they are about their illness, which I think is because of the great work of St Clare. It was delightful to be in such a happy place once again, one which I have supported for over 20 years now."

Vanessa Boyle, hospice lottery manager, said: "It's been great having Vicki here to show her support and complete the draw. And by taking the time to chat to patients in our inpatient unit she has really made their day."

The winner of the £2,000 first prize in the raffle was Gaynor Potter from Dunmow.

Scientists on the trail of mythical mountain beast

THE abominable snowman, or Yeti, has long been considered the stuff of myths and legends – but what if these fearsome beasts actually exist?

Well if they do – and that is a big 'if' – then the answer may lie in western Siberia where Russian scientists are planning to set up a research institute in Kemerovo dedicated to the study of the Yetis following 15 recent sightings of strange creatures in the region.

"We spoke to local residents," researcher Dr Igor Burtsev told reporters, "and they said Yetis were stealing their animals."

"We think that the Yeti is a separate branch of human evolution. It lives in harmony with nature."

Dr Burtsev believes around 30 Yetis may be living in a remote region of Mount Shoria in Siberia, describing the two-legged creatures as heavy-set, around 7ft tall and resembling bears.

According to one report from a resident who claimed to have spotted a Yeti, its body was covered in red and black fur and it could climb trees. But sceptics have pointed out that the Kemerovo region has used its reputation for Yeti sightings to promote tourism in recent years.

It holds an annual Yeti Day and this year will run an ice sculpture competition called 'In the World of the Yeti'.

Stories about the terrifying beasts are thought to have originated in the mountain settlements of the Himalayas, where villagers told of hairy, ape-like creatures stealing livestock.

Your stars with Patrick Arundell
to guide you through the week ahead

Aries Mar 21-Apr 20

You are the go-getter of the zodiac and with the Sun in your sign, you'd think it would be all systems go now.
And, to a degree, they can be. However, some hopes may slow right down which can cause huge frustration. Patience is going to be essential. Do bide your time because there are going to be lots of ebbs and flows in the weeks to come, Aries.
Call for more news...

Libra Sept 24-Oct 23

Crossed wires are possible in all forms of communications, but especially in partnerships. Recently you have been showing a more assertive streak, but your skills as a listener are going to be crucial from here on in. At work you may find yourself in some kind of negotiator role but you can be very successful at balancing each side and reaching agreement. Call for more advice...

Taurus Apr 21-May 21

It can turn out to be a huge surprise, but your mind can arc back to someone from your past, and the way you think about them can now
change completely.
Perhaps you can be friends after all, possibly something more, yet you may be wary of making contact. If you have been disappointed by someone recently, take heart, for newer pals will soon emerge. Call for your love scope...

Scorpio Oct 24-Nov 22

The beguiling Venus moves into the most romantic zone,
and can bring a softening vibe to all sorts of situations. But whilst your social life can blossom from this, do give yourself the permission to have a few relaxing evenings and to catch up on your sleep. Explore new techniques and treatments to help boost your vitality. Call now for your in-depth forecast...

Gemini May 22-Jun 21

If a friend or associate doesn't immediately answer a message, give them the benefit of any doubt. Mix ups in communications, and especially around your social life, can occur more frequently now, so check out all the facts before feeling you've been shunned. At work, someone influential can be protective and may even put in a good word for you. Call for more advice...

Sagittarius Nov 23-Dec 21

You can organize a social gathering at home, but someone may disappoint and cancel, at the last moment. Try to take this in your stride, for this can help you to get to know another new friend much better. A change of plans may also affect a new romance or a date.
You can find yourself keen on a Spring clean, or a new brighter, decorative scheme. Call for your love scope in full...

Cancer Jun 22-Jul 23

You're showing a real determination around some of your big goals, but unbeknown to you, something can change this week which is beyond your control.
However, keep the diplomacy going, and remain focused on your hopes. Things will fall into place, eventually, but you are now in a less predictable phase, but one which can present exciting opportunities.
Call me for more...

Capricorn Dec 22-Jan 20

If you are in the process of leasing
or buying a property, expect some delays. To push things along, you will need to ensure all those involved, are thoroughly briefed and attending to things on your behalf. If you're looking to upgrade a current home, it would be best to get more than one quote. Better still ask friends for a personal recommendation. Call for your financial scope...

Leo Jul 24-Aug 23

If you are set to travel this week,
factor in a Plan B.
Industrial disputes, traffic snarl ups or flight cancellations could impact on you, so a contingency will be helpful. Fortunately someone else's financial fortune can rub off on you and a windfall can drop your way. In love, you need to trust one another enough to develop your own personal interests
Leo. Call for your love
scope in full...

Aquarius Jan 21-Feb 19

Even a trusty domestic appliance
may go on the blink now Aquarius, but don't worry, because any replacement will be more efficient and save you money in the long run. Talking of cash, whatever your circumstances, a slice of luck is a real possibility from here on in. You may even want to have a flutter. A rather slinky Aries can see your pulse race. Call for more advice...

Virgo Aug 24-Sept 23

Be persistent if someone owes you cash, or you await a payout on an insurance claim. If you can link this to diplomacy, better still. Solo? Your love life enters a rosier phase, and it can be someone with a magnetic aura who draws your attention. If an existing tie has stumbled, focus on the things that work between you, rather than those that don't. Call for your love
scope in full...

Pisces Feb 20-Mar 20

The sultry vibes of Venus glides into your sign, giving you added confidence around your appearance and triggering
a new start in your love life.
Yet with Mercury starting a backward journey, you will need to micro-manage your finances to ensure nothing is overlooked. Double check things like bank statements to ensure no charges are unfairly levied.

A classic fairytale with Beale appeal

A TIMELESS tale of love, laughter and triumph over adversity will be brought to life on The Playhouse stage this Easter.

Beauty & The Beast marks the return of New World Productions – the company behind record-breaking Harlow pantos Cinderella and Aladdin – to the theatre with a star-studded cast of TV and showbiz favourites.

The classic fairytale tells the story of Belle, a beautiful young woman who helps to heal the broken heart of her captor, a grouchy prince charming transformed into the hideous Beast by an evil enchantress.

If the Beast can learn to love, the curse will be lifted and he will be transformed into his former self. But time is running out and he and his entire household will all be doomed if he fails to learn his lesson.

Taking the lead role of Belle is Melissa Suffield, best known as Lucy Beale in the BBC soap EastEnders.

The dual role of the Beast/Prince will

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor
chris.moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

be played by Jonathan Ansell, the gifted young singer who shot to fame with pop opera group G4 on the first series of ITV's The X Factor. He recently kicked off his solo career with a top 10 album.

Also in the cast are Danielle McCormack (Mel Barker from CITV's My Parents Are Aliens) and Jonny Freeman (Frank London from CBBC's successful spy show M.I. High) in the show, which runs from Sunday, April 10 until Monday, April 18.

Director Andrew Lynford said: "It's going to be great fun for all the family, both young and old alike.

"This show will take the original Beauty & The Beast fairytale and give it a new twist as only New World Productions can!"

Playhouse manager Scott Ramsay added: "Following the success of last year's The Wizard of Oz we're delighted to be able to stage another original production of a popular story during the Easter holidays.

"It's a great cast and there will be lots of popular songs accompanied by energetic dance routines, as well as lots of magic and laughter."

Tickets for Beauty & The Beast cost £17 (£15 concessions) and are available from the box office on (01279) 431945 or online at www.playhouseharlow.com.

Cast excel in celebration of am-dram

REVIEW

MURDER IN COMPANY

Moot House Players, Moot Hall

IT was hard to know where reality ended and drama began. After all, here was an amateur dramatic company performing a whodunit about an amateur dramatic company rehearsing a whodunit...

The play-within-a-play in rehearsal – Murder At The Manse – sounds dire and the cast are unenthusiastic, but director Philip is convinced it's just the thing to get bums on seats. But it's hard for the bickering actors to keep their minds on their lines when there's so much going on off-stage. Coupled with the fact a prowler is attacking women in the area and it's only a matter of time before murder rears its ugly head. Almost anyone in the cast could have had reason for carrying out the killing, but the admission of guilt was so surprising there were genuine gasps of shock and disbelief from the Moot Hall audience.

One of the pleasures of am-dram is that, over time, regular audiences get the chance to watch actors develop their technique and grow in confidence.

Dan Powell as the boisterously camp Ronnie brought powerful emotional intensity to his role, Alan Hodgson was chilling as blackmailing caretaker Mr Smith, and Bridget McAlpine caught the comedy of Doris's gradual slide from a restorative sip of brandy into intoxication.

Matthew Truman and Kerry Rowland as Alan and Pat produced some good 'bad' acting that had me fooled for a moment, and there was strong support from Angela Hodgson as the smitten Margaret and Claire Quiley as Phoebe. Geoff Leeds, meanwhile, brought a wound-up energy to Philip, the difficult and irascible director.

A celebration of am-dram everywhere, the play highlighted the loyalty and commitment of actors who turn up in dreary halls on dark evenings and struggle to learn their lines, their only reward being the satisfaction of working together to create an entertaining show and the audience's appreciation.

I trust the heartfelt applause of the audience was payment enough for what was a wonderful performance.

No escape from train that keeps exploding

REPEAT PERFORMANCE: Michelle Monaghan as Christina Warren and Jake Gyllenhaal as Captain Colter Stevens in SOURCE CODE

SOURCE CODE certificate 12A 1h33m

TIME certainly isn't on the side of gung-ho hero Colter Stevens in Duncan Jones' fast-paced action thriller.

He has just eight minutes to avert disaster and unmask a bomber who has planted a device on a speeding commuter train bound for Chicago. However, there's a mind-boggling twist. If Colter fails and the bomb detonates killing everyone on board, he can travel back in time to relive the same nail-biting eight minutes, gathering more evidence to solve the case.

Helicopter pilot Colter (Jake Gyllenhaal) wakes on a train sitting opposite Christina Warren (Michelle Monaghan). Confusingly, she calls him Sean and a visit to the bathroom reveals that he is trapped inside the body of a teacher called Sean Fentress.

"Everything's going to be okay," smiles Christina as the train explodes. Colter wakes almost instantly in a top secret facility under the control of Dr Rutledge (Jeffrey Wright), who needs Colter to identify the bomber.

Rutledge orders uniformed officer Colleen Goodwin (Vera Farmiga) to send the pilot back into the source code, which has been culled from the memory of the real Sean Fentress.

Each time Colter is transported back into the parallel reality, he gathers intelligence about his fellow passengers including businessmen Max Denoff (Russell Peters) and student Derek Frost (Michael Arden).

Groundhog Day shakes hands with The Matrix in Jones' eagerly awaited follow-up to the critically adored Moon. While this new film lacks some of the low-budget ingenuity of the director's eye-catching debut, Source Code is nevertheless an adrenaline-pumping thrill ride that plays loose and fast with notions of space and time.

On reflection, there are aspects of the high-concept plot that do not make sense and some of the digital effects aren't as slick and polished as we have come to expect. But Jones and editor Paul Hirsch don't pause for breath, maintaining a brisk tempo throughout as the clock ticks down relentlessly towards doomsday.

The film doesn't become too bogged down in the science behind the slam bang thrills, and while Colter is destined to repeat the same journey down the line, the iterations are sufficiently different to hold our attention.

The central relationship between Colter and Colleen draws obvious parallels with Moon and confirms that Jones is a director capable of eliciting compelling performances from his leads.

Gyllenhaal brings vulnerability to his role, including a heartbreaking scene when he breaks protocol to make an important telephone call. Farmiga is equally impressive in a role that requires her to stare down a camera lens.

The romance with Monaghan is a sweet diversion, providing the impetus for a final journey inside the source code to attempt to rewrite a history that cannot apparently be changed.

The Eagle In 120 AD the entire Ninth Legion of the Roman army disappears without trace in Scotland and its standard, a golden eagle, is lost forever. The commander of those soldiers also vanishes and 20 years later, his son, Marcus Aquila (Channing Tatum), accepts a posting in Roman-occupied southern Britain in order to learn the truth about his father's demise. With the help of his uncle (Donald Sutherland) and slave boy Esca (Jamie Bell) he heads north in search of answers accompanied by Esca, a member of the tribe of savages responsible for slaying the Ninth.

Limitless Eddie Morra (Bradley Cooper) has been wrestling with writer's block for weeks and now his girlfriend Lindy (Abbie Cornish) has finally given up on him. At his lowest ebb, Eddie meets his former brother-in-law Vernon (Johnny Whitworth), who gives him a wonder pill called NZT which reportedly increases brain activity and unleashes untapped creativity. Eddie swallows the pill and the next morning discovers he has churned out the first 40 pages of his magnum opus. As Eddie becomes addicted to the medication, he metamorphoses from hopeless bum into a suave, ultra-confident and charming man about town, winning back Lindy and earning the respect of powerful Wall Street mogul, Carl Van Loon (Robert De Niro). However, Eddie's supply of pills is finite and in order to continue his meteoric rise he must acquire a new stash.

A Turtle's Tale: Sammy's Adventures (3D & 2D) A greenback sea turtle called Sammy (voiced by John Hurt) proudly looks back on his life, starting in the late 1950s when he emerged into the world on a Californian beach and struggled to clamber out of the egg chamber. He discovers the love of his life – the beautiful Shelly (Gemma Arterton) – only to lose her to the strong tides. Drifting on the currents, he meets a leatherback turtle called Ray (Robert Sheehan) and they become best friends. As the turtles circumnavigate the globe, they encounter deadly piranhas, a scavenging fish eagle and a Parisian cat called Fluffy (Kayvan Novak), who resents being usurped in his hippy owner's affections.

Battle: Los Angeles It's August 12, 2011 and capital cities around the world are under attack from alien invaders. We rewind 24 hours and follow events leading to first contact and the subsequent bloodbath.

Rango Rango (voiced by Johnny Depp) is an ordinary chameleon who accidentally winds up in the town of Dirt, a lawless outpost in the Wild West in desperate need of a new sheriff.

EB (voiced by Russell Brand) lives on Easter Island with his father (Hugh Laurie).

The young rabbit is destined to ascend the throne as master of all that is sugary and egg-shaped but EB harbours dreams of becoming a drummer in a rock band.

So he runs away from the warren and heads for Hollywood, where he finds an unexpected ally in eternal loser Fred O'Hare (James Marsden), who glimpsed the Easter Bunny delivering baskets when he was a boy.

Having revealed his true identity to Fred, EB auditions for Hoff Knows Talent in front of judge David Hasselhoff (playing himself). Meanwhile, Fred struggles to win the approval of his parents (Gary Cole and Elizabeth Perkins), who dote on his adopted sister (Tiffany Espensen).

Thankfully, older sister Sam (Kaley Cuoco) helps Fred to achieve his potential.

ZACK Snyder (300, Watchmen) directs this visually arresting fantasy about a young girl who has to escape into her imagination to survive.

Baby Doll (Emily Browning) is locked away in a mental institution by her cruel and abusive stepfather.

Incarcerated in a facility with seemingly no hope of escape, Baby Doll loses her flimsy grasp on reality until a wise man (Scott Glenn) advises her that the path to salvation lies in the fantastical realm she shares with fellow inmates Sweet Pea (Abbie Cornish), Rocket (Jena Malone), Blondie (Vanessa Hudgens) and Amber (Jamie Chung).

As the girls abandon harsh reality for this imaginary realm where they can become mistresses of their own destiny, they also discover the courage and steely resolve to combat brutality in the real world.

Category Three bedroom semi-detached on a large corner plot

Additional Conservatory, lounge/diner, large bathroom, garage with driveway

Price £245,000

Agent Genesis Property Services, 3 High Street, Old Harlow. Telephone (01279) 422422

OCCUPYING a large corner plot in Watersmeet, Harlow, this attractive semi-detached property has three good size bedrooms, a lovely garden and provides plenty of light and spacious family accommodation.

From the wooden floored entrance hall is a staircase to the first floor. There is a door to the lounge/dining room which has a lovely Georgian-style feature window to the front, a coved ceiling and central fireplace.

Attached to the back of the lounge/diner is a pretty Georgian-style semi circular conservatory providing access to the garden.

The kitchen has a tiled floor and a selection of wall and base units with single drainer sink unit, plumbing for a washing machine and dishwasher, built-in oven and four-ring hob with extractor.

Bedroom one has superb, full height sliding wardrobes along one wall and a double glazed window overlooking the back garden. Bedrooms two and three overlook the front of the property.

A larger than usual family bathroom has a white suite with corner bath and separate, fully tiled shower cubicle. There is a double glazed window to the rear and a heated towel rail.

Outside, a single attached garage has an up-and-over door, light and power. There is also a door giving side access and driveway parking for several vehicles.

The back garden is laid mainly to lawn, with two-tiered paved patio areas and an outside tap. There is also a garden pond and timber garden shed.

Offers of around £390,000-£400,000

AN outside television and a hot tub are just two of the special extras at this property near the Churchgate Street area of Old Harlow.

The three-bedroom house has been greatly improved by the current owners and is now a lovely family home, finished to a high standard.

There are two reception rooms, a study, a conservatory and a refitted kitchen with a range of integrated appliances.

The landscaped back garden has remote controlled lighting and a garage. There is a patio area with the remainder laid to lawn and mature plant and shrub borders.

Call Haart on (01279) 443311 for further details.

Yours for £187,500

THIS three-bedroom staggered terraced property at The Maples, Harlow, has a lovely south-facing garden and plenty of storage.

A new double glazed entrance porch leads to the large hall with downstairs cloakroom.

The lounge has patio doors leading to the garden and one clever feature is the home's gas-fuelled warm air heating.

The fitted kitchen features a range of wall and base units.

This house is available with no onward chain. Call Centurion Property on (01279) 417234 for full details or to arrange a viewing.

On the market for £649,950

LITTLE Jenkins, in Jenkins Lane, Great Hallingbury, dates back to the 1600s and boasts a wealth of period features including exposed beams and open fireplaces.

The house has plenty of spacious accommodation with a good size entrance hall, study, lounge, dining room, magnificent bespoke kitchen, three double bedrooms and a utility room.

There is also a barn with planning permission to convert to a two-bedroom ancillary annexe and the property sits in a large plot of just under half an acre.

Vacant possession is offered and Wright & Co can arrange a viewing appointment for you on (01279) 600400.

Asking price of £359,995

ROSEMONT in Hare Street, Harlow, is a very attractive period property dating back to 1893.

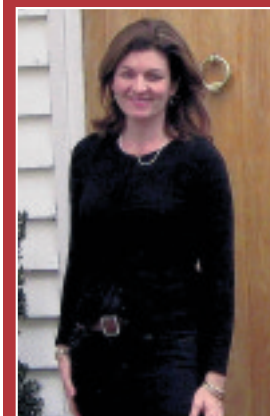

The house has two large reception rooms including a dual aspect lounge and dining room, a fitted kitchen to the rear and downstairs cloakroom.

The master bedroom has an en-suite shower room and there are three further bedrooms and large family bathroom.

The property is set back from the road and a driveway provides ample parking. There is an extensive patio area at the back of the house with steps leading down to lawn to the rear and side of the property.

Call Geoffrey Matthew Estates on (01279) 444988 to arrange a viewing.

IF you've been waiting to buy a new home but want to make sure your timing is right, now could be the moment to take the plunge.

According to recent statistics, the average value of a home in Britain is now £201,000, which is a drop of 18 per cent from £247,500 in October 2007. Property website Zoopla suggests this recent fall in values may have created a buying opportunity.

Much of the drop has been over the past eight months, with prices falling 11 per cent since last summer. The north east has taken the brunt of the fall, with prices down 14.12 per cent since last July with average local house prices at £142,242. As is often the case, London has proved the most resilient, with prices down 7.59 per cent to £378,295.

"While it has been a challenging period for the property market over the past few months, the recent dip in prices and the notable variance between regions may have created some interesting buying opportunities", said Nick Leeming, business development director at Zoopla.co.uk.

"The first half of 2010 provided strong gains in market values but, since last summer, economic uncertainty and lending constraints have eroded these gains and put downward pressure on house prices."

Maybe you've been renting while you waited to see where the market was heading or you could be a first-time buyer trying to get your foot on the property ladder. Whatever you're situation, now may be the right time to do it.

Local Property Comment

Alan Howick

More sold boards than daffodils!

Spring is here, it's so exciting, there are as many daffodils as our "for sale and sold boards" - 'springing' up all over Harlow!

The signs are encouraging, more and more family's are out and about viewing homes, a massive improvement on this time last year.

How long will it last, I hear you say?

Well, I firmly believe we are on the route to recovery after a double dip in the market since 2007.

History suggests, a three or four year recovery after a 'property fall' (prefer that to collapse) and this spring is the fourth anniversary, so hopefully, were back on track.

Finally, young Ben here in our office had a big smile on Monday, his team won 8-1 on Sunday morning - good preparation for his final on the 10th, especially as a member of the opposition is a close mate of his!

GUARDIAN Residential Lettings, Harlow's largest letting agent has launched a new website in response to changes in the market. Business has continued to go from strength to strength for Guardian since it was set up in 1994. The company decided the time was right to add a new, exciting dimension to its existing marketing.

Working with web specialist, Cambridge Media Ltd, Guardian has now launched a new website aimed at raising its online profile. Managing director of Cambridge Media Ltd and former Harlow resident, Graham Paffett was recommended to Guardian. With 15 years in web design and online and offline marketing experience, his original ideas and suggestions on how to raise Guardian's online profile, and increase search engine traffic with a full offline marketing/branding strategy for the local arena were excellent.

"It has been a real pleasure working with Graham" said Juliette Rainbird of Guardian Lettings. "He has listened to our customer needs and inserted them into our new web site. As Harlow's longest established agent we already have a very strong local presence but our existing site was very dated and need to be more exciting to use as well as remaining informative for new landlords and tenants alike "

"As a local chap, the offer to work with Harlow's leading letting agency really did not need a second thought." Said Graham Paffett. "The team at Guardian are incredibly passionate about property and working with them on their new site has allowed the progression of several new marketing ideas which will stand them in good stead over the forth coming years. Their new online site gives a great reflection of just how diverse the company is and the wealth of knowledge that they are able to bring to the lettings sector within Harlow. It's been a great start to the marketing strategy, and this is part of a very big plan to increase brand awareness, both online, through search engine marketing, and offline through brand identity and marketing".

Commercial Property Feature

Win free accommodation at the Harlow Business Centre

FOLLOWING the successful launch at Harlow Business Centre in February, it is full steam ahead for the Initiative Award 2011 and the search is now well under way for a budding entrepreneur.

The Initiative Award invites new businesses with innovative ideas to apply and hopefully be chosen to benefit from a totally free six-month support package which includes business accommodation, mentoring, banking, legal advice, accountancy, IT equipment, print, branding and marketing.

A shortlist of finalists will be invited to present their unique business concept to a panel consisting of representatives from local supporting companies.

The winner will then enjoy the benefits of the support package and take advantage of the facilities on offer at Harlow Business Centre, including 24/7 access and CCTV, free parking, administrative support, buildings maintenance and insurance, refuse collection and a daily delivery/collection service.

The Harlow Business Centre also offers flexible terms, great value for money and professional friendly business support within a secure and ideally situated site. For further details about Harlow Business Centre or an application pack for the

Initiative Award 2011, please contact Gaynor Perkins on (01279)429644, email initiativeaward@harlowbusinesscentre.co.uk or visit www.harlowbusinesscentre.co.uk/initiativeaward.

Leon FR is a complete 'hot hatch'

By Matt Joy

IT wasn't quite a case of testing to destruction – that's something I'm not sure anyone would like to see – but this was the closest possible thing.

Never mind sampling a new car for a day, a week or even a month: this was an eight-month, 18,000 mile test of whether the Seat Leon FR TDI could handle real life.

The FR's precise place in the Leon line-up is especially important. With only the Cupra and Cupra R above it in the range, the FR is unquestionably a hot hatch. It certainly looks the part: our particular example was finished in fashionable white but with the twist of black 18-inch alloy wheels.

Despite the Leon not being the newest kid on the block, it regularly turned heads. There's something about the strong, bold lines and the purposeful stance that made it hard to ignore.

Yet this particular FR was diesel, the 2.0-litre common rail unit with 168bhp to be precise. Not only does that make it one of the few performance diesel cars at any price, it's also just one element of the FR's dual personality that made it such a versatile machine over all those miles.

Engine: 2.0-litre diesel unit delivering 168bhp
Transmission: Six-speed dual clutch driving the front wheels
Performance: Top speed 133mph / 0-62mph in 8 secs
CO₂ Emissions: 148g/km
Economy: Overall 41.9mpg, best 55.1mpg

That strong diesel unit pumps out 258lb.ft of torque which contributes to the highly impressive performance. The engine's sweet spot through the middle of the rev range is where the torque really feels strong and the Leon will surge forward, accompanied by a meaty thrum rather than any unpleasant diesel noise. But this is just one side of the FR's personality. The other side can be best summed up simply by the official figures of 50.4mpg and 148g/km. This is still an economical car and although it can't perform the miracle of being fast and economical at the same time, you have the choice of either to suit your mood.

On the regular commute, the Leon regularly managed to exceed 50mpg when driven with a thrifty mindset, and on the days when cobwebs needed to be blown away the scenic route was despatched rapidly. There's another key aspect lurking in the spec sheet; our particular Leon FR diesel also had the DSG dual-clutch gearbox.

Like most people who are taught and raised on a strict diet of manuals, autos are often seen as the choice for the lazy owners and luxury cars. But DSG has changed all that. It's a simple idea that requires complex execution, but the crux of it is that the DSG has two clutches and, therefore, can offer shifts so quick that there is almost no perceptible interruption in power.

Stick it in Drive and it gives you the same fuss-free approach that you get from a regular automatic and a smooth take-up of power, with the imperceptible shifts adding to the relaxed feel. For a more spirited approach, S mode has all the answers as it recognises bigger presses of the accelerator and holds on to gears as a result.

Then there's full manual mode, with paddles on the back of the wheel to shift up and down sequentially. In this mode you're getting the best of DSG, with full control but without having to think too much about it: a finger-flick and you're on to the next thing.

It has a few tricks up its sleeve, too. There's a launch control sequence if you fancy reproducing the eight seconds to 62mph sprint, you can flick a paddle to change a gear even in auto mode (and cancel it just as easily) and on long downhill runs it will recognise you feathering the brakes and shift down automatically to give extra engine braking. It's clever technology applied well that makes the difference.

It has been eight months with plenty of fun, but the Leon has done the boring stuff very well, too. Despite the mileage, running costs have been pretty low. Average fuel economy for the duration has been well over 40mpg, which accounts for equal bouts of fuel-sipping and pedal-to-the-metal moments.

The one and only service that the Leon required checked in at a very reasonable £150, with a top-up bottle of the nice synthetic lubrication used for the oil change, and the one and only fault during the whole time was also diagnosed: the audio system refused to eject a CD and the dealer ordered and fitted a replacement unit under warranty.

Family holidays (with a roofbox), cross-country dashes, motorway trudges and even just for pleasure, the Leon was always up to the task and enthusiastic with it.

The fact it was almost entirely faultless, economical, well-equipped and still a pleasure to look at even after eight months tells you all you need to know.

The Leon FR is the complete hot hatch for the 21st century.

The official fuel consumption figures in mpg (l/100km) for the Clio Renaultsport 2.0 VVT are: Urban 25.0 (11.3), Extra Urban 44.1 (6.4), Combined 34.4 (8.2). The official CO₂ figure is 195g/km.

ASX- The new crossover from Mitsubishi

Big enough for a horde of excitable kids, yet small enough to cope with rush hour, the new ASX has been designed for real people with real lives. At home on city streets or open country roads, the higher driving position, class-leading interior space and assured handling have been intelligently packaged to create an agile and versatile family car. And the low CO₂ engines, Auto Stop & Go, energy efficient tyres and advanced alternator control will reduce the size of your carbon footprint, saving you money to spend on living. We call this intelligent Motion.

New age group record for Moody

COLIN Moody won the veteran 60 trophy and set a new Harlow Running Club record in his age group in the Oakley 20-mile race.

This was after the indomitable runner clocked a fantastic time of 2 hours, 31 minutes and 7 seconds in the Bedfordshire event on Sunday.

He was followed home by Andy Terrell (2:32.34), Graham Saville (2:46.56) in a personal best (PB) time and Linda Selby (3:20.17).

Linda Hawkins, in her debut race at the distance, clocked 3:32.50.

At the Braintree 5 mile race, which incorporated the Essex Championships, Jared Bethell was the first Harlow finisher.

He clocked a superb time of 29 mins 33 secs and was followed home by Jamie Jephcott in 31:05.

John Tennant finished second veteran 60 in 32:38 and earned the Essex veteran 60 silver medal.

Richard Solomons finished in 32:55, while John Bull clocked 34:00 (PB).

Other times were: Sharon Wright (36:27); Daniel Jephcott (38:51); Alison Bull (44:01); Susie Morley 46:34; Susan Dewen 47:42.

Servo Link are darts champions

SERVO Link secured the Harlow & District Premier Darts League title after their 7-1 win against Colt Hatch.

Servo lead the league by 26 points and cannot be caught in spite of second-placed White Admiral's 7-1 win at Small Copper.

Steve Jefferies' 180 helped Tye Green Whites to a 5-3 win over Stow Snooker.

Moot House won 5-3 at Crusader and Staple Tye won 5-3 at Golden Swift.

Ladies are a four-ce to be reckoned with

Harlow 4, Thurrock 1
Essex Women's Hockey League, premier division

THE season was finished off with a flourish as Harlow Ladies registered a comprehensive home victory over basement side Thurrock.

Saturday's result avenged Harlow's defeat against their south Essex rivals earlier in the season and meant they finished in fifth place, a single point behind the third-placed team, East London, in the premier division.

ON THE CHARGE: Carolyn Welsford tussles with a Thurrock opponent at Passsmores School on Saturday (HSP0723146)

Despite Harlow enjoying early possession it was the visitors who broke the deadlock after 12 minutes. A counter-attack down the left allowed a shot on goal, and the Thurrock forward reacted first to the rebound from goalkeeper Linda Rowley to stab home. Harlow equalised three minutes later.

Pressure in the Thurrock circle finally told when captain Emma Tweddle and Carolyn Welsford combined before Charlotte Byers struck from close range.

Petra Trimble then put Harlow 2-1 ahead after 23 minutes with a reverse stick shot from the left.

With Jo Chambers and Anita Shearman strong at the back, Harlow continued to apply the pressure in the second half.

Byers got her second after 53 minutes, following a run from midfielder Welsford.

Michelle Stanesby got on the scoresheet five minutes from the end with a slick passing move culminating in a shot from the right-winger against her former club to complete a comfortable victory for the hosts.

HARLOW (squad): Shearman, Figg, Chambers, Spencer, Tweddle, Welsford, Ferdinando, Amos, Byers, Stanesby, Trimble.

● HARLOW's men's first team wrapped up their East League division four south east campaign with a 1-0 home win against Upminster Ill. They finished third from bottom but missed out on relegation.

Defeat makes drop for Rams inevitable

PRIDE is all Harlow have to play for in their last two games at Old Streetonians (April 9) and Saffron Walden (April 16).

The Rams can finish no higher than bottom and are effectively down unless some dramatic league reorganisation saves them.

This was after Harlow's expected defeat at leaders Rochford five days ago left them unable to catch any of the teams above them.

However, the Rams played with much more spirit and commitment than they have shown in recent matches, but Rochford created gaps which they exploited.

Harlow suffered a blow after five minutes when experienced number eight Paul Eynon went off with a calf muscle tear injury.

His replacement, Kerry Palmer, filled in capably but the Rams missed Eynon's ability with the pick-up from the back of the scrum and ruck.

Rochford went ahead on eight minutes after they exploited a gap in the Harlow defence and Michael Stemp scored a try.

Tom Ashton converted as he did on 15 minutes when Tom Corbet touched down.

Harlow trailed 14-0 and defended well before flanker Mark Bowering was yellow carded for a ruck offence on the half-hour mark.

Rochford exploited the extra man advantage, running in a good try through Matt Stewart. Ashton converted from out wide.

Despite being still down to 14, Harlow scored a consolation try on 37 minutes.

A good break from Michael Dobson set up lock Darren Hawkins for a try close to the posts.

Dobson kicked the conversion.

However, Rochford scored two more tries before the break through Stewart and Greg Stubbs.

Ashton kicked both conversions and Harlow trailed 35-7 at half-time.

Harlow came closest to scoring in the second half when Will Grimley broke 60 yards, but the winger was stopped inches short of the home line.

The Rams restricted Rochford to three unconverted tries with Stemp and Robert Prior touching down before Stewart completed his try hat-trick.

Rams director of rugby Lee Harron said: "Mathematically we are down barring some miracle. I am looking for good performances against Old Streetonians and Saffron Walden.

"It would be good to get a win [in the last two matches] but it will not be easy. Old Streetonians have done well lately."
HARLOW: Mackie, Grimley, Bates (Ellis 55), L. Bowering, Webb, Dobson, Powell, Lane, Romaine, Cunningham (Branch 70), Twinner, Hawkins, M. Bowering, Drake, Eynon (Palmer 5).

Jokers have last laugh Solomon fine

A POOR start proved costly for Harlow Hawks as they lost at home to Ware Jokers in division one of the Herts County League.

The Hawks trailed 18 points by the end of the first quarter before matching Ware point for point afterwards (57-57) in Friday's match.

Hawks player coach Shab Niaz said: "Overall we played well, but the shots just did not drop for us in the first quarter.

"I'm pleased with the level of effort that was put in by the players."

It wasn't a great start for the home side as they struggled to put the ball in the basket.

The movement was good, but the ball just wouldn't drop which was the complete opposite for the visitors who had a great shooting quarter and opened up a big margin.

Hawks trailed 23-5 going into the second quarter. This saw the home side go to their bench for inspiration and this helped Harlow.

Dave Spashett showed good form with five early points backed up by Zaf Niaz connecting with a pair of long-range efforts.

Hawks' defence was led by Lee Jones who stole the ball and raced the length of the court to finish under pressure.

Harlow Hawks 62, Ware Jokers 80
Herts County Basketball League, division one

Hawks were closing the gap until Ware hit a couple of jump shots in the last minute of the half and were left trailing 41-25 at half-time.

The Hawks came out flying in the third quarter.

Luke Atkinson had success inside through hard work, but poor perimeter defence from the home side let Jokers sink three consecutive three-pointers of their own to halt the Hawks' comeback.

The home side headed into the final period down 61-43.

In the final quarter it was Harlow's bench who again provided the scores early on through Zaf Niaz, Jones and Mark Haddow, but the visitors responded again to keep the Hawks at arm's length.

The game turned a little scrappy with both teams committing a number of fouls resulting in free throws which slowed the pace down.

And Hawks were unable to recover from their poor start as top-of-the-table Jokers ran out convincing 80-62 winners.

HARLOW HAWKS: L Atkinson (13pts), Haddow (12), Z Niaz (10), Moss (9) Spashett (7), S Niaz (7), Jones (4), Allan, S Atkinson.

MARK Hall School student Canaan Solomon showed his great ability as he won the U-13 boys 3km race in the South East England Inter Counties Cross Country Championships at Reigate on Saturday.

The 12-year-old was hoping for a top 10 place but found himself in the lead on the first lap and always had control of the race to win from a field of 80 starters in 10 minutes and 26 seconds.

Five other Harlow youngsters were representing Essex schools. Stewards School pupil Rosie Poole, (11), ran extremely well and clocked a superb 12:04 to come 13th and was the second Essex finisher in the U-13 girls 3km race.

Mark Hall pupil Jodi Ratcliff, 12, ran well for 31st and was 6th scorer for Essex in a time of 12:35.

In the U-14 girls 3.5km race, Mark Hall student Alicia McArdell (13) ran well to come a fine 10th in 13:53 and was 2nd scorer for Essex.

Her school colleague Sky Mulvey (12), in her first Essex appearance, was 29th in 14:54 and 10th scorer for Essex.

In the U-14 boys 3.5km race, 12-year-old Ben Patterson (Mark Hall) ran well to finish in 13:35. He was 39th and 12th scorer for Essex.

Essex athletics coach John Stow said: "This is an excellent set of results from some very determined young athletes and this bodes well for Harlow."

Volleyball nets Bulgaria coach

A PROFESSIONAL volleyball coach from Bulgaria is hoping to launch men's and women's league teams in Harlow.

Iliia Kalanov (41) has been running training sessions at two venues in the town.

Kalanov, of The Hides, Harlow is keen to take advantage of the fact that the sport will rise in popularity when teams compete for the gold medal at the London Olympics next year.

Kalanov was a top player in his homeland where he played for a team which won the championship twice.

He hopes enough players will take up the sport so he can launch league teams.

He said: "I came here from Bulgaria 12 years ago. I played volleyball there since I was 13 years old for more than 15 years and with my team we became twice champions of Bulgaria, once second and once third.

"I am coaching volleyball for Harlow College students every Wednesday from 1.30pm-3.30pm at the leisurezone.

"On Saturdays I am coaching other people at Norman Booth Centre in Old Harlow from 1pm-2.30pm."

He moved to Harlow in 2008.

"I want people to know more about volleyball, a great Olympic sport, which deserves more people to attend it," he said.

"I'm a professional volleyball coach registered with Volleyball England and I am developing volleyball at school level and also soon we will register a men's and ladies team in Harlow.

NET CALL: Iliia Kalanov instructs volleyball players at leisurezone in Harlow last Saturday (HSP0721457)

"I am trying together with Volleyball England to increase people participating in volleyball. Also I am trying to involve schools. I am contacting them and some of them are responding well.

"I hope soon to have a few teams and to start Harlow competitions between the schools and College. Also around Easter and summer time, when the weather gets better we are planning to have beach volleyball at the Town Park. That will be a lovely way to introduce our game to people."

If you are interested in taking up volleyball, contact Kalanov on 07881936597.

Champs end season in style

DIVISION Two champions Upper Clapton were weakened by injuries and holidays but rounded off the season in style with a thumping 65-12 win at Stanford-le-Hope in the RFU Essex League.

Saturday's victory made it 16 wins out of 16 in a campaign which saw Clapton score 782 points and concede only 143.

It also saw the experienced Richard Jones being given the captaincy.

This was to mark his 21st year of playing first team rugby – a huge landmark for any player.

Clapton went ahead on two minutes when the ball was moved quickly for Tom Roberts to touch down an unconverted try.

However, Stanford replied almost immediately with an unconverted try.

Mike Tindall then scored two tries, one of which was converted to put Clapton 17-5 ahead.

Tom Winkworth darted over for Clapton before Danny Smith beat three home players to score an unconverted try as Clapton led 27-5 at the break.

The second half saw Clapton continue in the ascendancy and they scored six tries, four of which were converted.

The tries came from James Hack (4), Roberts and Paul Baldwin.

Stanford replied with a converted try.

Brace for England footballer Brooke

FOOTBALLER Gavin Brooke, below, played a crucial role as a substitute when he scored two goals for the England Cerebral Palsy team in a 3-0 victory over Scotland.

The 21 year-old, from Harlow, was playing in his first ever competitive game for England and his brace against Scotland helped England come third in the St Patrick's Day invitational football tournament.

Brooke, of Hollyfield, also came on as a sub in games against Ireland and Holland in the tournament in Dublin. He heat the bar several times against the Dutch.

Brooke plays for Hertfordshire Rangers in the Footprint Bishop's Stortford, Stansted & District Football league.

The brave youngster has battled back from two brain tumour ops.

Going up - again!

THE Harlow RFC's U-16 side beat Stanford-le-Hope 18-10 to seal promotion in their final Essex League division two game of the season.

It secured successive promotions for the Young Rams.

Coach Peter Claridge and manager Kevin Ellis were delighted with the boys' attitude and achievements and proud of their team's efforts.

Prop Zaki Chamnaoui and Kurtis Knightley scored the tries. Knightley kicked two penalties. Harlow U-16s: Chamnaoui, Bailey, Foley, Doe, O'Hanlon, Newborough, Boswell-Banks, Lane, Riddell, Roberts, Ramsey, Alger, Knightley, Davies, Judge, Macmaster, Handscomb, Rami, Burrows.

Mark Hall hosts tri-school tournament

STUDENTS with special educational needs competed in a tri-school sport partnership competition at Harlow's Mark Hall Sportcentre.

The event, for years 7-11, was hosted by the Harlow School Sport Partnership (HSSP) at the London Road hub.

The students took part in and received coaching in athletics, cricket, football, table tennis, and wheelchair basketball.

There were a total of 10 schools represented on the day.

Harlow Fields, Mark Hall and Passmores all sent students to the event.

HSSP development manager George Gardiner said: "The main aim of the day was to provide opportunities and coaching in different sports for the students and some of them will be invited to a county day later in the year.

SPORT FOR ALL: Disabled athletes compete in the event at Mark Hall Sportcentre

"It was great to see so many children having fun and enjoying the opportunity to take part in different sports and my thanks go to all those involved who made the day such a success."

Ferguson.

After the break Roache wasted a great chance but made amends moments later when he met Ferguson's right-wing cross and passed the ball into the net on 53 minutes.

Brayley then completed his brace with a 66th-minute 32-yard piledriver.

The visitors netted a consolation when substitute Patrice Elbi slotted home on 70 minutes as Harlow took their foot off the gas.

Danny Brown's lovely through ball in injury-time should have given Brayley his hat-trick.

He just had the keeper to beat but his attempted lob was well saved. Chapman said: "Looking back four or five weeks ago we were beating teams but not scoring enough goals. We were a bit concerned at the time that goal difference could come into play and it could be a problem, but over the last four or five games that's changed dramatically."

"It was another fantastic win for us. It sent out a message that we are serious about what we want to do at this football club."

getting problems when he's running. Until we get him scanned it's a bit of a mystery."

Chapman has blocked a move from Cheshunt to take forward James Peagram on loan. "He is staying with us. We want him to stay until the end of this season and next season as well," added Chapman.

Harlow visit lowly Great Wakering Rovers this Saturday.

"On paper we should beat them but we will not be complacent," he added.

Central defender Laurie Stewart was a sub against Romford. Chapman will consider bringing him back in or keeping faith with Leo Roget and Lee Gledhill who have impressed in recent weeks.

game of the season is away to title-chasing Needham. "Even if by the time we play Needham we need to go there and win we will apply ourselves. They are all winnable games," added Chapman.

It could mean two trips to Needham in a fortnight for Harlow. The play-off final could well be held at the Suffolk side's ground in early May - if East Thurrock secure the title.

Meanwhile, fourth-placed Harlow closed the gap on Brentwood with Saturday's win over Romford.

Brentwood surprisingly lost at lowly Ilford last weekend.

In a further boost, Wingate & Finchley were also beaten, while play-off rivals Maldon & Tiptree United picked up just a point from two games this week.

JAMES Mays bagged a brace as Alemite Athletic reserves came from behind to beat Frontiers in the Division One Cup final. Frontiers went ahead after 10 minutes of Saturday's clash at Bishop's Stortford Football Club.

A move down the left resulted in Peter Thorpe shooting home.

Alemite, who lead division one, equalised on the half-hour mark.

Mays held off a challenge before drilling home from 10 yards.

Mays then grabbed a second on 40 minutes. He latched

Harlow & District Football League, Div Three Cup final

THE extra edge in front of goal from Harlow & District League new boys Mark Hall was crucial as they overcame FC Flare to win the Division Three Cup final.

Sunday's clash at Bishop's Stortford FC drew a crowd of more than 150 and saw division three leaders Hall go ahead in the first minute.

A James Drake corner was tucked home by Joe Hatwell after a goalmouth scramble.

Mark Hall created more first-half chances but Flare came close to scoring when Jack Gardner's 25-yard drive was cleared off the line by Hall

The second half started with Hall pressing and Anton Ostacchini put an effort over the bar before Drake saw an effort saved.

However, Flare equalised on 68 minutes when Cory Mills curled his corner kick into the net.

Hall regained the lead on 77 minutes when Ostacchini of the football and their keeper made two outstanding saves from Mays in the first half.

"If we play properly we can go on to win the league and do the double."

Frontiers player-manager Paul Eeles said: "They were expected to win and I thought we gave a good account of ourselves. It could have gone either way."

knocked the ball past the approaching keeper Matt Colgan.

Kane Read put Hall 3-1 ahead on 83 minutes when he steered in Jake Wookey's cross.

Shortly after, Jack Doyle rounded off the scoring when he shot home a rebound after Colgan spilled Doyle's initial shot.

Flare player-boss Jim Brown said: "Mark Hall's fitness told as we ran out of steam. I was very proud of the team for reaching the cup final."

The match was sponsored by the Fairways Sports and Social Club.

Martial arts expert has style

A MARTIAL arts expert from Harlow is aiming to promote a new art of self-defence.

Steven Harknett (49), from Longbanks, has just had his system recognised by David Turton 9th dan black belt of the Self Defence Federation and the All Styles Martial Arts Association as a genuine martial art.

The style created by Steve is Martial Arts

called Harknett ryu Kempo-Jutsu. It is a cohesive blend of karate, kickboxing and several jiu-jitsu styles combined with kempo striking.

It is not suitable for children under 10 and has no sporting connotations.

Harknett also recently gained his Masters instructors level qualification in self-defence.

He is qualified to teach self defence principles in all areas ranging from women's self-defence to children's self-defence.

Harknett is looking for four apprentices (aged over 18). All candidates should be 1st dan black belts.

Call Steven Harknett on 07513 818211 for details.

SIGNED UP: Harlow Town have signed Daniel Day, inset, and made an approach for Ware winger Luke Marshall, above (HSP0723260)

Spurs ace joins, another ponders move

HARLOW Town have signed one player and hope to bring in another before today's transfer deadline of 5pm.

The Ryman division one north play-off chasers were planning to speak to Ware's 21-year-old winger Luke Marshall today (Thursday).

The club put in a seven-day approach for him last week.

This follows the signing of talented Spurs defender Daniel Day (17), on work experience until the end of the season.

Hawks co-owner Tom Cunningham was thrilled to acquire the services of first year Academy player Day. The left-back was signed on Tuesday.

By ALAN SCOTT

Cunningham said: "I spoke to Alex Inglethorpe [youth team coach at Spurs] at a reserve game between Reading and Spurs. I said we are looking for a left-sided player and he came back saying he had somebody. We want cover everywhere.

"Spurs were very keen to help us. He's excellent. I saw him in a training session. He is very quick and strong and has a great attitude. We do not want somebody who is doing us a favour."

He added: "It's a massive experience for him. He can play left-back or wide left."

Harlow boss Danny Chapman admitted his side needed cover for Dave Cowley and Steve Ferguson on the flanks.

Right-footed Marshall impressed in Ware's 2-2 draw with Harlow earlier this month. He can play on either flank or in attack.

"When we were up against Ware a couple of weeks ago he impressed us. If you look at our squad it's really strong but if Dave Cowley or Steve Ferguson got injured we look light. That is an area we can strengthen," said Chapman.

The Hawks boss could lose experienced striker Che Stadthart for another fortnight. He is to undergo an MRI scan on his problem knee injury. Chapman said: "He's still

Six of the best to deliver third

HAWKS boss Danny Chapman is eyeing six wins from his side's last six games - to make sure Harlow Town finish third.

The Harlow boss, right, not only wants to secure a play-off spot but wants to ensure his team finish above third-placed Brentwood (currently four points clear) and make sure they get home advantage in the play-off semi-final.

The fourth-placed Hawks want to avoid finishing fifth as they could face a trip to Needham Market or East Thurrock United in the play-off semi.

But first, Harlow must seal a top five spot - and Chapman says to do that they must win ALL their remaining matches.

"There are six games to go. We could need 73 or 74 points, but we have a chance of getting 77 points in our last six games," explained the Hawks boss. "That's what we would like to get. We can't afford to lose one. We've just got to keep winning games. The confidence is sky high. If we get three points every game from now until the end of the season there are no buts and maybes - that's one way to get into the play-offs."

He added: "We want to get third. We want to be at home [in a play-off semi-final] for our supporters."

Awesome foursome as Town kill off play-off rivals

Harlow Tn 4, Romford 1
Ryman, division one north

THE Hawks delivered a defiant message to their play-off rivals as they cut the gap on third-placed Brentwood to four points with a game in hand, writes ALAN SCOTT.

Danny Chapman's men out-classed Romford on Saturday and have now lost only once in their last 10 games. They look in red-hot form as the season enters its final stage.

Romford will have been pleased to see the back of Harlow who have dealt a hammer blow to their own play-off hopes having lost twice and conceded eight goals in the last three weeks to the Barrows Farm men.

Harlow strikers Bertie Brayley and Lee Roache both grabbed two goals and look to have struck up an excellent understanding.

was particularly impressive, with some wonderful tricks, flicks and skills.

In February 2010, the car salesman quit Harlow's arch-rivals Bishop's Stortford and his then manager Mark Simpson rather comically told the Star's sister paper, the Observer, that Saturday afternoons were rather busy for him.

The following week he turned up playing for Stortford's rivals Braintree!

Well he must love these 1pm kick offs - he might still have a chance to sell a few

LEON KING: Lee Roache (10) scores Harlow's second goal against Romford on Saturday (HSP0723132) and then celebrates with team-mates more cars on a Saturday afternoon!

The match kicked off early due to the England match, but it's disappointing in a town the club are still struggling to break the 270 barrier.

Romford keeper Adam Rafis superbly denied Roache before the in-form forward put the hosts ahead on 15 minutes when he nodded home after great work from Dave Cowley on the left.

It was 2-0 on 38 minutes when Brayley stabbed the ball in from close range after Cowley's corner was flicked on by Steve >>Cont'd on page 87
